Company Fact Sheet:

For more than 35 years, Elmira Stove Works has designed and manufactured appliances with a unique, antique and retro design aesthetic coupled with the latest in performance technology. Elmira's reputation is built on providing handcrafted appliances that reflect individual taste along with the elegance and charm of former styling.

Founded in 1975 by Tom Hendrick, Elmira Stove Works saw its first success by launching a series of antique-styled ranges powered by electricity and gas as an upgrade from wood-burning cookstoves. The business grew rapidly and as the stoves became more visible, Hendrick began developing what has evolved into Elmira's current state-of-the-art appliances. Since its introduction, Elmira expanded to include a complete kitchen complement – side-by-side or French door refrigerators, microwave ovens, wall ovens and panel kits for dishwashers. Furthermore, Elmira later launched its 1950's-styled Northstar refrigerators to an outstanding response and then added retro ranges, matching exhaust hoods, microwaves and dishwasher panels.

Throughout its history, Elmira has remained grounded in quality, innovation and customer service. Elmira's philosophy on customer service and business operations reflects back to a time when personal service and knowing every customer was standard practice. Every product is built with the highest quality and energy standards in mind, incorporating innovative features and performance technology throughout the vast array of product lines.
